The Campus Bike Center is a hands-on educational space that provides expertise, tools, and resources, dedicated to empowering individuals with knowledge about how to repair and maintain bicycles.

The Campus Bike Center offers afternoon hours at a convenient location for students, staff, faculty, and the general public to perform their own work on simple and complex bike problems. Help with bike maintenance is available for all sorts of problems including:

- Fixing flat tires
- Making brake adjustments
- Repairing bottom brackets
- Correcting seat and chain problems
- Installing light sets

CAMPUS BIKE CENTER MEMBERSHIP

Annual membership payments can be made by cash, check, or charge and fees can also be credited in exchange for eight hours of volunteer work. Membership is also good at the downtown Urbana Bike Project location. The first use of the Campus Bike Center is free.

- Students and low income $25
- General public $40
- Family/Partner $65
- Free with 8 hours of volunteer work

Membership provides access to tools and an extensive collection of bicycle parts, most of which are received from donations. The center also sells refurbished bicycles and low-cost lights, locks, and other safety devices. The center also offers bicycle repair courses for those who wish to seek more comprehensive, in-depth knowledge.

Since opening in 2010, through a grant from the Student Sustainability Committee, the Campus Bike Center continues its mission of teaching bicycle maintenance, providing access to affordable equipment, and supporting overall safety education.

The Campus Bike Center is a collaboration between the University of Illinois and local non-profit The Bike Project of Urbana-Champaign.

The Campus Bike Center, along with other initiatives, helped earn the University of Illinois the Bronze-level Bicycle Friendly University designation in 2011 from the League of American Bicyclists. The league recognizes institutions of higher education for providing bicycle friendly facilities.
BICYCLE REPAIR COURSES
The Campus Bike Center offers a number of bicycle repair and technical courses throughout the academic year. These one-off, in-depth courses are offered at the Campus Bike Center for a small course fee of $5-$20 per session, and are open to students, staff, faculty, and the general public. Departments, Residence Halls, and campus units can also partner with the Campus Bike Center to offer workshops, demonstrations, or full courses to students, staff, or faculty on-site.

Course topics include:
- How to choose and purchase a bike
- Basic bike maintenance
- Tire repair
- Brake repair
- Adjusting shifters and derailleurs
- How to package a bike for shipping

More information, including course costs and schedules, can be found at go.illinois.edu/bike.

BICYCLE REPAIR STATIONS
The Campus Bike Center also maintains two of the bicycle repair stations on campus. These stations, one located right next to the Campus Bike Center and the other behind Altgeld Hall, provide basic maintenance tools (screwdrivers, tire levers, Allen wrenches, air pumps) whenever needed.
